We are going to have our annual opening next week-all day Thursday, December 15, and our palatial Tea House on that occasion will take on the semblance of a fairy bower. The floral decorations will be under the supervision of those eminent horticulturists, Messrs, C. Strauss & Co., while that celebrated cornetist, Prof. William Northcott, will lend the enchantment of his silver-toned instrument from 7:30 to 9 p.m. We want you to be on hand, for we intend to give all our patrons who visit us on that occasion a reminder of the event in the shape of a sweet-scented bouquet.

I really believe I consult the Century Dictionary that i have at my home oftener than I do the one at my office, which is saying a great deal.

The chief excellence of the work is its exposition of the language as we hear it and understand it and use it in every-day life.

When, I or instance, I compare the Century's preferred recognition of the convenient of the convenient reference pronunciation of "squalor" or its definition of the person accepting the debenture of the respectable that I have so long recarded as authority. I am impressed with the necessity of having for the ready reference of my family (especially my growing coys and girls) a dictionary that is abreast of the times and that gives the language up to date, so to speak.

Faithfully yours,
